I'm just curious, how long the city is going to allow the homeless camp to continue to grow next to the railroad between Kellogg and Duff? Why not work with the railroad and get permission to clear all the trees out to prevent this? Maybe if they are hidden inside the trees, then they are out of site, out of mind? Perhaps that the thought here? I'm also sure that if this was closer to campus or by the stadium, it would have already been addressed.
